October 11, 2015

Dear Colleagues,

It is our great pleasure to welcome you to 2015 International Summit on Suicide Research sponsored by the International Academy of Suicide Research and the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention to be held at the beautiful Waldorf Astoria in New York City. We hope that this meeting will continue to provide a forum for all investigators working in suicide research to present their latest data, exchange new ideas, and discuss ongoing developments. Further, we hope to bring together investigators working in diverse areas of research, from molecular geneticists to epidemiologists and interventions researchers, to generate new interdisciplinary approaches to the problem of suicide and suicidal behavior. It is our hope that each participant will come away from this meeting energized with an appreciation of the breadth of the work being conducted in our field. Importantly, with your help, we hope to mentor, support and encourage young investigators who are the future of our research endeavors.

This year's meeting includes plenaries, oral presentations, and posters covering a breadth of topics and with participation from over 30 countries.

We are particularly pleased to present to you three poster sessions which will take place on Monday and Tuesday at 1:00 PM and on Wednesday at 10:45 AM. We believe that these events should be both informative and entertaining, and we encourage all meeting participants to attend and interact with the poster presenters, as well as meet with other colleagues.

This conference would not be taking place without the efforts of many individuals. In particular, the Organizing Committee would like to thank Kelly Phy and Sarah Timm of Parthenon Management Group, as well as our Scientific Advisory Committee for their continual, invaluable work in all aspects of the planning and preparation of the meeting.

We hope that you will also have some time to enjoy our exciting city. If there is anything we can do to make your visit a more enjoyable one, please let us know.

Sincerely,

Maria Oquendo, M.D. Co-Chair

Barbara Stanley, PhD. Co-Chair

ABOUT THE 2015 INTERNATIONAL SUMMIT ON SUICIDE RESEARCH

Preventing Suicide: Progress Through Research

This 2015 International Suicide Research Summit will bring together suicide researchers studying topics ranging from neurobiology and genetics to prevention and intervention. All suicide researchers and those interested in learning about the most cutting edge evidence are invited to attend and take advantage of this excellent opportunity to network and interact. In addition to plenary sessions with preeminent suicide researchers and symposia, the meeting will include a mentoring program, poster sessions, and workshops addressing methodological issues particular to suicide research, such as assessment of suicidal behavior, strategies for research on low base rate outcomes, use of proxy measures, and maintaining the delicate balance between ethical and methodological concerns.

Conference Co-Chairs: Maria Oquendo, M.D. and Barbara Stanley, Ph.D., Department of Psychiatry, Columbia University, New York State Psychiatric Institute

The learning objectives for the Summit:

- 1. Participants will be able to articulate the key findings in the development of preventive/intervention strategies and how to incorporate translational research strategies into intervention studies.
- 2. Participants will be able to describe methodological and ethical challenges in research design for studies where the outcome of interest is suicidal behavior.
- 3. Participants will be able to enumerate the most recent neurobiological, genetic, psychological and social evidence related to suicidal behavior.

ABOUT THE ORGANIZERS

International Academy of Suicide Research

The International Academy for Suicide Research is an organization that promotes high standards of research and scholarship in the field of suicidal behaviour by fostering communication and co-operation among scholars engaged in such research.

The Academy's official publication is the Archives of Suicide Research. This is a peer-reviewed journal published by Taylor & Francis.

The Academy holds annual scientific and business meetings. These have been held in conjunction with conferences such as the International Association for Suicide Prevention, the European Symposium on Suicide and Suicidal Behaviour, and the American Association of Suicidology.

For more information, please visit: http://www.suicide-research.org/.

American Foundation for Suicide Prevention

Founded in 1987 by a number of leading experts on suicide, business and community leaders and survivors of suicide, the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP) is the leading national, not-for-profit organization exclusively dedicated to understanding and preventing suicide through research, education and advocacy, and to reaching out to people with mental disorders and those impacted by suicide.

To fully achieve its mission, the AFSP engages in the following Five Core Strategies:

- Fund scientific research
- Offer educational programs for professionals
- Educate the public about mood disorders and suicide prevention
- Promote policies and legislation that impact suicide and prevention
- Provide programs and resources for survivors of suicide loss and people at risk, and involve them in the work of the Foundation

AWARDS

The Morselli Medal is awarded every two years by the International Academy for Suicide Research (IASR) to an individual who has made an outstanding and important lifetime contribution to the study of suicidal behaviour and/or suicide prevention. This is the Academy's most distinguished award and is intended to be a "lifetime achievement" award. The Award is named in honour of Enrico Morselli, late of the University of Genoa School of Medicine who is regarded as being the first scientific, statistically informed epidemiologist in suicidology.

2015 Winners of the Morselli Medal

Mark Williams is Emeritus Professor of Clinical Psychology at the University of Oxford, having been Wellcome Principal Research Fellow at Oxford from 2003 to 2012, and at Bangor University between 1991 and 2002. He collaborated with John Teasdale and Zindel Segal in developing Mindfulness-based Cognitive Therapy (MBCT) to prevent relapse and recurrence in major depression, and co-authored, with them, Mindfulness-based Cognitive Therapy for Depression (2013), The Mindful Way Workbook (2014) and with them and Jon Kabat-Zinn, The Mindful Way Through Depression (2007). He is a Fellow of the British Psychological Society, the Academy of Medical Sciences and the British Academy. Now retired, he continues to live near Oxford, to teach mindfulness to teachers-in-training across the world, and to explore, with colleagues, how mindfulness and compassion might most authentically be cultivated in evidence-based public policy.

David Brent is a child and adolescent psychiatrist with additional training in epidemiology who studies the risk factors, etiology, treatment, and prevention of adolescent suicidal behavior. He was involved in some of the first psychological autopsy studies of adolescent suicide, which identified depression and bipolar disorder, high suicidal intent, non-affective comorbidity, and access to firearms as factors that differentiated suicides from those who attempted or had significant suicidal ideation. Subsequently, he has studied the familially transmission of suicidal behavior, the impact of suicide bereavement on peers, siblings, and youth, and the treatment and prevention of depression with pharmacotherapy and psychotherapy. Currently, he is working with a large team of investigators to develop a brief, adaptive screen for suicide risk to be administered in pediatric EDs, and on the development of an app-supported brief intervention of hospitalized suicidal youth.

IASR MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION

There are three categories of IASR members: Junior Members, Regular Members and Fellows of the Academy.

Junior Members are individuals engaged in suicide research under the direction of a mentor. Examples are postdoctoral trainees, doctoral or masters students. The duration of a junior membership is limited to 3 years at the end of which they will automatically be considered for regular membership.

Junior members:

- pay no dues
- have free access the electronic version of the journal
- · are invited to the meeting
- receive the IASR newsletter
- are eligible for IASR Star Awards

Regular Members are individuals who are engaged in ongoing research on suicide, either directly or as advisers, reviewers or consultants in an academic institution or equivalent.

Regular members:

- pay annual dues of $125 USD (US Dollars)
- · receive a print copy of the journal
- have access the electronic version of the journal at no charge

Fellows of the Academy are individuals who have established a reputation as significant contributors to knowledge in the field of suicidal behavior. This is exemplified by directing and designing innovative research, making significant contributions to the peer reviewed literature and providing guidance to trainees and developing scientists. Fellows are appointed from among existing regular members or de novo from the scientific community.

Criteria for Membership in the Academy

The person should be an outstanding and internationally recognized researcher in the field of suicidology as indicated by publications in peer review journals.

- The research need not necessarily be empirical research, but can include theoretical, ethical or legal research work.
- Should be highly recommended by peers.
- No history of scientific misconduct.

Application Procedure for Membership in the IASR

The applicant should submit an updated curriculum vitae along with letters of nomination from two (2) current full members.

Please use the online forms at www.suicide-research.org, or send your application material by mail to the IASR Secretary - Treasurer, Dr. Annette Erlangsen, at the following address: secretary@suicide-research.org

All materials received will be reviewed by the Membership Committee, and the applicant will be notified by letter of the Academy's decision.

MENTORSHIP

The International Academy of Suicide Research (IASR) is committed to fostering the development of Early Career Researchers (ECRs), such as graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, residents, and junior faculty, within the field of suicidology and is planning an exciting and valuable program for ECRs during the International Summit on Suicide Research. This mentoring program, inaugurated at the previous IASR meeting, will pair ECRs with established senior investigators based upon their shared research interests. Mentors and mentees will meet at a special breakfast on the second day of the conference, at which Professor Matthew Nock will give a talk, providing his advice for junior investigators. The program will also feature the very popular, interactive 'Editors' Roundtable' session, with contributions from Drs. Barbara Stanley, Maria Oquendo, and Thomas Joiner.

FEATURED SPEAKERS

On the Measurement of Suicidal Propensity and the Computation of Risk

Sunday, October 11, 2015 from 4:00 PM - 5:00 PM

Robert Gibbons, Ph.D. The University of Chicago Biological Sciences

Director of the Center for Health Statistics

Robert Gibbons is a Pritzker Scholar and Professor of Biostatistics in the Departments of Public Health Sciences, Medicine and Psychiatry at the University of Chicago, where he also directs the Center for Health Statistics. Professor Gibbons is a Fellow of the American Statistical Association and a member of the National Academy of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences. He has authored more than 275 peerreviewed scientific papers and five books. His statistical work spans the areas of longitudinal data analysis, item response theory, environmental statistics and drug safety and has led to thousands of applications in the biological and social sciences. Professor Gibbons received the Harvard Award for life-time contributions to biostatistics, the Rema Lapouse

Award for contributions to Psychiatric Epidemiology from the American Public Health Association, the Long-Term Excellence Award from the Health Policy Statistics Section of the American Statistical Association, two Youden Prizes for contributions to statistics in chemistry from the American Statistical Association as well as their Outstanding Statistical Application award. He is a founder of the Mental Health Statistics section of the American Statistical Association.

FEATURED SPEAKERS

Leveraging Public Opinion and Policy to Support Suicide Prevention Research

Sunday, October 11, 2015 from 4:00 PM - 5:00 PM

Mary Woolley Research!America President

Mary Woolley is the president of Research! America, the nation's largest notfor-profit, membership supported grassroots public education and advocacy organization committed to making medical and health research a higher national priority. Under her leadership, Research! America has earned the attention and respect of elected and appointed officials, researchers in the public, private and academic sectors, media, and community leaders with its record of innovation in advocacy for research.

A native of Chicago, Woolley received a bachelor of science from Stanford University and a master of arts from San Francisco State University. In her early career, Woolley served as San Francisco project director for the then largest-ever NIH-funded clinical trial, the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MRFIT). In 1981, she became administrator of the Medical Research Institute of San Francisco, and in 1986 was named the Institute's executive director and CEO. Woolley has served as president and CEO of Research!America since 1990.

Reducing Suicide: A Research Perspective

Tuesday, October 13, 2015 from 2:30 PM to 3:30 PM

Thomas Insel, M.D.National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH)
Director

Thomas R. Insel, M.D., is Director of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), the component of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) committed to research on mental disorders. Dr. Insel has served as Director of this $1.5B agency since 2002. During his tenure, Dr. Insel has focused on the genetics and neurobiology of mental disorders as well as transforming approaches to diagnosis and treatment. Prior to serving as NIMH Director, Dr. Insel was Professor of Psychiatry at Emory University where he was founding director of the Center for Behavioral Neuroscience and director of the Yerkes Regional Primate Center in Atlanta. Dr. Insel's research has examined the neural basis of complex social behaviors, including maternal care and attachment. A member of the Institute of Medicine, he has received numerous national and international awards and served in several leadership roles at NIH.

CONTINUING EDUCATION INFORMATION

Target Audience: This course is designed for psychiatrists, psychologists and other professionals working to reduce the number of suicides that occur each year. There are no prerequisites for this course.

These objectives support medical assessment and management with patient populations for physicians, nurses, nurse practitioners, physician assistants and pharmacists.

The learning objectives for the Summit:

- 1. Participants will be able to articulate the key findings in the development of preventive/ intervention strategies and how to incorporate translational research strategies into intervention studies.
- 2. Participants will be able to describe methodological and ethical challenges in research design for studies where the outcome of interest is suicidal behavior.
- 3. Participants will be able to enumerate the most recent neurobiological, genetic, psychological and social evidence related to suicidal behavior.

The learning objectives for Clinician's Day:

- 1. Participants will be able to articulate the risk factors and warning signs for suicide.
- 2. Participants will be able to describe several short-term management strategies for patients experiencing suicidal ideation or behavior.
- 3. Participants will be able to enumerate several available evidence-based strategies for treating the suicidal individual.
- 4. Participants will be able to discuss the key medical legal issues and recommended strategies for mitigating risk in working with suicidal patients.

Continuing Education Credits are available for physicians and psychologists. Applications for credit must be completed online with the meeting evaluation survey. The survey may be completed after the conference at www.SuicideResearchSummit.org. Surveys for continuing education credit must be submitted no later than November 17, 2015.

ACCREDITATION STATEMENTS

PHYSICIAN: This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation requirements and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint providership of USF Health, the International Academy of Suicide Research and the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention. USF Health is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

USF Health designates this live activity for a maximum of 23 AMA PRA Category 1 CreditsTM. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

PSYCHOLOGISTS: USF Health is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists. USF Health maintains responsibility for this program and its content. This activity is approved for 23 CE credits. Full attendance to the conference is required. Partial credit will not be awarded.

Disclaimer

The information provided at this CME/CE activity is for continuing education purposes only and is not meant to substitute for the independent medical/clinical judgment of a healthcare provider relative to diagnostic and treatment options of a specific patient's medical condition.

USF Health Office of Continuing Professional Development reserves the right to cancel this activity due to unforeseen circumstances, in which the full registration fee will be refunded. USF Health is not responsible for travel expenses incurred by the participants in the unlikely event that this activity is cancelled. USF is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action / Equal Access Institution. For disability accommodations contact CPDSUPPORT@health.usf.edu (813-224-7860), within five days of the event.

Disclosures for all Summit presenters can be viewed at www.SuicideResearchSummit.org.

All participants who request continuing education credits by November 17, 2015, should expect to receive their statement of credits via email in December.

The Meeting Evaluation Survey will be available at www.SuicideResearchSummit.org. We encourage all registrants to complete the evaluation. Attendees requesting CME or CE credits must complete the survey in order to obtain credits. Your candid input on the 2015 meeting is appreciated as we strive to improve the meeting for future years.

Location: Grand Ballroom

Christine Moutier

Abstract: Suicide prevention as a field has grown tremendously in the past 50 years. In this 30-minute session, key developments clinicians should be aware of for their practice and as leaders in society will be presented. This session will kick off the day-long conference, giving clinicians a number of perspectives to frame the issue of suicide throughout the day. Highlights include a conceptual model for understanding suicide risk, understanding suicide from a public health perspective, grassroots activities impacting social stigma, and public policies that have the potential to lower suicide rates. Clinicians can play a role in reducing the rate of suicide, both through their clinical work with patients at risk for suicide, but also through other potential roles they play: as leaders in their local, regional, or national communities, media spokespersons, educators, and policy advocates.

8:45 AM - 9:45 AM Suicide Risk Assessment: State of the Art

Location: Grand Ballroom

Chair: Keith Hawton Jill Harkavy-Friedman

Abstract: Clinicians are expected to assess for suicide risk with each person at intake. The process is started in the initial evaluation and continues throughout treatment. Assessment of current and past suicidal behavior and additional risk factors will be reviewed. The potential therapeutic impact of assessing for suicidal thoughts, behaviors and risk will be discussed as well as how to engage with collateral resources in order to maintain an approach aimed at suicide prevention. Active discussion will be encouraged throughout the presentation.

9:45 AM - 10:00 AM Break Location: East Foyer

10:00 AM - 11:00 AM Managing Suicidal Patients in Outpatient Settings: Strategies to Safely

Avoid Hospitalization

Location: Grand Ballroom

David Jobes

Abstract: There is emerging research showing the virtue of managing suicidal patients on an outpatient basis. This presentation will feature a review of suicide-specific management and treatment techniques that can be used to effectively work with suicidal patients within outpatient mental health care. Some of these interventions include various forms of stabilization planning (e.g., safety planning and crisis response planning). In terms of clinical treatments, replicated clinical trial studies have shown the effectiveness of Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT), Cognitive Therapy for Suicide Prevention (CT-SP), and the Collaborative Assessment and Management for Suicidality (CAMS) as proven evidence-based outpatient treatments for suicidal risk. In addition, there is emerging interest in brief interventions (1-4 sessions), the use of non-demand follow-up caring contact, and potential new technologies that can supplement suicide-specific care. These various interventions will all be considered within a stepped-care model of suicide treatment that emphasizes evidence-based suicide-specific care that is least restrictive and cost effective. Finally, potential concerns about suicide-related malpractice liability will be considered.

Location: Grand Ballroom

Greg Brown and Lars Mehlum

Greg Brown

Abstract: Although nearly all clinicians are faced with suicidal patients in their practice, there are few guidelines for treating patients with acute suicide ideation or who have recently made a suicide attempt. This presentation will provide an overview of an empirically supported cognitive intervention for treating suicidal patients. Conceptualization of the risk factors associated with suicidal acts from a cognitive perspective will be described and linked to treatment planning. The steps for conducting a cognitively-based suicide risk assessment and for developing a safety plan in collaboration with suicidal patients will be presented. Specific intervention strategies that take place in the early, intermediate, and later phases of treatment will be illustrated through didactic presentation and case discussion.

Lars Mehlum

Abstract: Suicidal and self-harming behavior - highly prevalent in adolescents and a strong risk factor for long-lasting psychiatric morbidity and completed suicide – is often experienced as particularly challenging and risky to treat by many clinicians. A large proportion of self-harming and suicidal teenagers receive little or no treatment, and among those adolescents who have indeed been referred to specialized care, many drop out prematurely because of their treatment interfering behaviors or lack of support from families or clinical services. Despite these challenges, several effective approaches to treat suicidal teenagers have been developed in recent years; interventions that are accessible and acceptable to the teens and their families, as well as feasible to deliver in community mental health settings. This presentation will briefly review some of these treatments and their research base and, furthermore, highlight what seem to be important components of interventions aiming at reducing the risk of suicidal behavior in this patient population. Whereas treatment research with suicidal and self-harming adolescents and their families remains one of the most complex and demanding tasks clinical researchers can undertake, a lot of progress has been made over recent years that gives reason for treatment optimism provided we are able to use the new knowledge in routine clinical practice in the many contexts self-harming adolescents are encountered.

12:00 PM - 1:00 PM Lunch on own

1:00 PM - 2:00 PM Neurobiology of Suicide and Pharmacological Approaches

John Mann and John Walkup

John Mann

Abstract: In 2004, the FDA placed a black box warning about risk of treatment-related suicide of antidepressants in children and in 2006 this warning was extended to young adults. Later this warning was extended to other classes of medication like anti-epileptic drugs and varenicline. It is hard to understand how so many different classes of medication, only some of which are antidepressants, can share the property of increasing the risk of suicidal behavior. At the same time we have learned certain things about the neurobiology of suicidal behavior, such as evidence for deficient serotonin transmission, that indicate enhancement of serotonin transmission should be protective. This presentation will review risk and benefit estimates from much research that has been published since the FDA warning was issued including results of randomized controlled trials to pharmaco-epidemiologic data sets. The results tend to show how FDA risk-benefit estimates, which are based on more than ten year old RCT-level meta-analyses, generated a more negative picture than current findings. These newer results are also more consistent with what is known about the neurobiology of suicidal behavior. A case may be made for re-evaluation of black box warnings related to suicide risk.

John Walkup

Abstract: This presentation will focus on the pharmacological approach to the children and adolescents with suicidal and self-injurious behavior. At this time there are limited data on pharmacological approaches to suicidal behavior, but extensive data exist regarding treatment of co-occurring psychiatric disorders and symptoms that are often driving suicidal behavior including impulsivity, anxiety, low mood, dysregulated emotions and behavior. The presentation will also review the data and impact of psychotropic medications on suicidal risk in children and adolescents. Particular emphasis will be on the importance of timely pharmacological intervention in reducing suicidal behavior.

Abstract: Patients at-risk of suicide or suicidal behaviors are often anxiety-provoking to clinical mental health professionals and threaten negative outcomes, both in terms of their potential to act on suicidal urges and, in consequence to such actions, the potential threat of a malpractice action. Clinicians are charged with meeting the standard of care in their assessment and treatment of at-risk for suicide patients, but too frequently are driven by their anxiety, insufficient training in, or misguided understandings of what constitutes reasonable, no less optimal, care of these patients. This presentation will offer strategies to both meet and maximize standards of care in working with patients at-risk for suicide, hence minimize negative outcomes.
