

Name: Amany Farag, PhD, RN
Current Title: Associate Professor
Affiliation: University of Iowa
Candidate for: MNRS Nominating Committee

Personal Statement:

My name is Amany Farag, I am an Associate Professor at the University of Iowa College of Nursing. I have been an active MNRS member since 2005. I served as the co-Chair of the Health System, Policy, and Informatics (HSPI)RIG. Additionally, I was honored by receiving funding (new investigator seed grant) and awards (dissertation and junior investigator award) from the MNRS and HSPI, respectively. Thus, based on my prior experience with the MNRS, I believe that volunteering to serve as a member of the MNRS nominating committee will provide me with the opportunity to promote and support the progress of the MNRS. I hope that through my role, I will be able to work with the committee members and the MNRS leadership group to recruit and nominate possible candidates to run for vacant MNRS positions. I am looking forward to serving and supporting the growth and promotion of such great organization.

Click Here for
Candidate's
CV / Biosketch