

Dear NCARS attendees,

We are writing to share that the submission deadline for the 2026 National Conference on Addiction Recovery Science (NCARS) Call for Proposals has been extended to the end of the day on May 25, 2026.

If you have been considering submitting, we hope this additional time provides an opportunity to prepare and share your work. We welcome submissions from those across all stages of training and experience, highlighting innovative research across the spectrum of addiction recovery science.

NCARS Mission and Purpose: The third annual 2026 National Conference on Addiction Recovery Science aims to bring together researchers at all stages of training and experience to stimulate exchange of ideas and allow for the presentation of cutting-edge research across the spectrum of alcohol and other drug use disorders and affected populations. This is the first national conference specifically dedicated to substance use disorder recovery science, and features plenary talks from national leaders, symposia, roundtable discussions, poster session, mentorship session, recovery organization supporter booths, and monetary early career investigator poster awards. The cost for early bird registration is $85 for professionals, $35 for undergraduate and graduate students, which increase to $100 and $50 respectively in July 2026. The registration link is forthcoming.

- Conference Dates: September 23–24, 2026
